About JAMES REDWAY Furniture Makers

We have been in the business of building 18th Century style furniture and 19th Century Shaker furniture since 1986. We specialize in the construction of solid cherry tables (mostly small side tables), benches, footstools, step stools, small chests and quilt racks. All table frames are constructed using pinned mortise and tenon joinery. Chests, step stools, and drawers are made using hand-dovetail joinery. All pieces are finished with hand-rubbed tung oil to achieve a soft silky finish. Each of our pieces are signed, dated, numbered and branded with our hallmark.

Woodworking classes are taught at our 750 square foot workshop located at our home in rural Middlebury, Connecticut. Our refinishing classes are held at our retail store, The Silver Cherry, in historic Woodbury, Connecticut. We are located in north western Connecticut minutes off of Route I-84. This area is rich in historic character. There are a variety of bed & breakfast's and relaxing New England Inns in the area. Woodbury has over 35 antique shops and about 6 fine craft shops. There are also a host of fine restaurants.

Our workshops are taught in a fun, friendly manner. Our week long workshop offers an opportunity to learn a variety of skills in a relatively short period of time. Everyone who has ever taken our workshops have found them very informative and quite a bit of fun.
