The Redway Blade - New For 2009

Handmade solid cherry kitchen cooking tool. Better than a wooden spoon or plastic spatula. The Redway Blade is made from solid cherry, is finely polished and feels silky smooth in your hand. Finished with extra virgin olive oil. Two edges of the tool are beveled to allow you to chop vegetables right in the pan. Use it to deglaze a pan by making it easy to scrape off the tasty bits of flavor left behind by other kitchen utensils. Great for making soups, sauces, sauteing vegetables, mixing doughs for no-knead bread recipes, or whatever. It is my favorite kitchen utensil and I use it for making everything featured in our cookbooks. A Great Stocking Stuffer that will last for years.

New this holiday season - The Creme Fraiche Blade. A beautiful, hand crafted, solid American Black Cherry kitchen tool, that feels silky-smooth in your hand. Finished with extra virgin olive oil, the Creme Fraiche Blade is great for making your own Creme Fraiche. But, that's not all it does. It's also a great little spatula to spread mayonnaise on sandwiches, or reaching to get the last bit of spread out of a jar. You can even use it to cut your sandwich after you make it.

Creme fraiche is a staple in French Cuisine, and is used for finishing sauces. Its a great substitute for sour cream, and is much higher in quality. You can whip it, and use it to make silky-smooth mash potatoes. It will not separate or curdle when combined with other ingredients, like sour cream does, so it is perfect for dishes such as Beef Stroganoff. It's very expensive to buy, but extremely easy to make at home. The Creme Fraiche Blade comes with a recipe for making Creme Fraiche, along with a dandy Silver Cherry Cookbook recipe for making Beef Stroganoff. Cook like a pro with the Creme Fraiche Blade. Only $8.50.
